A DESPERATE FIGHT.

With the ferocity of wildcats S. F. Meek and Andrew Pedros fought Saturday night to kill each other in Shamokin, Pa. Their deadly struggle lasted for more than an hour, and Lungs. Price 50 cents and $1 00 Trial while neither of them had firearms or knives, they inflicted terrible injuries upon each other, and both may die. In their fury they fought literally with tooth and nail, scrupling at nothing.

Meek, who is the proprietor of a shoemaking establishment, and Pedros, who is a miner, have long borne enmity to one another, and frequent threa's foreboded a clash between them. Ugly words began to fly when they met Saturday night, and in a moment their feud took a more violent form. Meek picked up a stone, and with it almost tore out the left eye of the miner.

Blood streamed down Pedros's face, but he whirled around and knocked down his assailant with a single blow. Then he jumped on him, and the two men clinched. They rolled about, bounding, scratching and hurting each other in every way that offered. A few people, attracted by the noise of the combat, gathered around them, but no one interfered. At times the men seemed exhausted, but would regain their strength and renew the fight Meek directed most of his blows at Pedros's face, and the latter was practi cally blinded.

The conflict was brought to an end by Pedros, who leaped to his feet, and with a mighty effort, picked up his opponent and hurled him with awful force against a stone heap. One of Meek's ribs was broken, and the end was into his lung. After disposing of the shoemaker, Pedros collapsed. His head was battered beyond recognition and he was internally injured.

Meek nearly died when the broken bone was extracted from his lung by a surgeon, only his strong constitution aving him. It was some time after the close of the fight that the injured men received attention, as the persons who saw it ran off after it was over, believing that the men had killed each

HAM FAT SAVED HER LIFE .- Physisicians at the Cooper Hospital, Camden, N. J., attribute the saving of the life of Nellie E Henry to a piece of ham fat. The woman, who is 34 years old, is employed as a domestic. On Satur day she was attacked with hemorrhage of the nose. Home remedies were tried with a view of stopping the flow of blood. All failing, a physician was summoned, and he worked for several hours with the patient, and as he failed he summoned a brother doctor. All the science that the two medical men could bring to bear on the case failed to stop the hememety for Headaches, Neuralgia, orrhage. All night Saturday and the preater part of Sunday the blood coninued to flow, and finally it was decided to send the woman to the Cooper Hospital. There the physicians tried all sorts of plans to bring reief. The woman was slowly bleeding to leath. Then an old-time remedy of packing the nostril with a strip of ham fat was suggested. This was tried with the result that the flow of blood was

A. T. STEWART'S PALACE SOLD .-Negotiations have been practically concluded for the sale of the famous A. T. Stewart mausion, at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and Thirtyfourth street, in New York. It has been valued at more than $2,000,000 and is about to be sold for $1 500 000.

The purchaser is a multi-millionaire of that city, and he has plans for the development of the property as the Manhattan Club is soon to move to its new quarters, the old University Club nouse, at the southeast corner of Madi son avenue and Twenty-sixth street.

CAST A BABY IN A SWAMP -A neatly dressed young woman was seen to throw a baby in the swamp at Madison street, Hoboken, N. J , on Friday. William Jaegal, who saw the crime committed, ran to the nearest station house, Police were sent out to investigate. During their absence two boys, Henry Wendt and David Hunter, arrived with the body of a nude child, apparently a few weeks old. The boys had seen the woman from a distance, and, hurrying to the spot, recovered the HIGH PRICE FOR NAILS .- Wire pails have advanced 25 cents a keg, and in accordance with an understanding arrived at lately with the so-called Wire Nail Trust, cut pails also advanced 25 cents. This makes the wholesale price of wire tails $2.65 a keg and of cut nails $2.80 a keg, $2.60 being double what wire nails sold at six months ago.
